

24th Annual Ethics Conference

Human Rights and Healthcare

Unity Health's Centre for Clinical Ethics is pleased to be hosting our annual ethics conference as an online speaker series over four Wednesdays in November. This series is free. Registration is required.

This year our focus is on Human Rights & Healthcare. This expansive topic has been brought to the fore by the pandemic's exacerbation of issues of racism, colonialization, and structural inequities within healthcare. We will hear from leading speakers on topics such as what is a 'right', how to balance competing interests of individuals within the healthcare system, the concept of accommodation, why cultural safety is essential in healthcare, and the impact being uninsured in Ontario.

DR. HAZEL MARKWELL HONOURARY LECTURE IN BIOETHICS

Title                    Tearing Down the Many Disability Barriers in Ontario's Health Care System

Speaker                David Lepofsky CM, O. Ont, LLB, LL. M, LL.D. (Hon.), visiting professor of Disability Rights and Legal Education, Osgoode Hall Law School, Chair of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act Alliance.

Abstract                Ontario's health care system has far too many disability barriers that impede patients with disabilities from fully using and benefitting from health care services to which they are entitled. The Ontario Government has pledged to enact a Health Care Accessibility Standard under the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act to remove these barriers. In this presentation, I will review these health care disability barriers and talk about what needs to be done to fix this situation.

Date & Time    Wednesday, November 9 | 12-1

Title                    What are rights, anyway? An ethical and legal perspective on rights in healthcare

Speaker                Xavier Symons, Ph.D., Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the Human Flourishing Program at Harvard University

Speaker                Melanie de Wit, JD, MPH, Chief Legal Officer, Unity Health Toronto, Adjunct Professor, Dalla Lana School of Public Health, University of Toronto

Abstract                The language of rights is often used by people who are advocating for themselves. Patients and their families frequently assert their "right" to particular treatment, accommodation, visitation, and information. Sometimes fulfilling these expectations detracts from what may be considered the rights of others, namely healthcare workers or other patients. How can we best navigate conflicting expectations regarding entitlements? We will explore how legal and moral concepts of rights can help us to balance competing interests within healthcare, while acknowledging the limitations of each.

Date & Time    Wednesday, November 16 | 12-1

Title                      Title forthcoming.

Speaker                Janet Smylie, MD, FCFP, MPH, Director of the Well Living House and Strategic Advisor Indigenous Wellbeing, Reconciliation, and Partnerships at Unity Health Toronto; Professor, University of Toronto.
